Introduction

In view of the fact that fictional stories have been circulated as to when the first Barnitz arrived in America, the writer has prepared this article to present the earliest documented facts and at the same time make available the results of many years of study concerning this wide-spreading Barnitz family.

The earliest found record of a Barnitz in Pennsylvania is in Warranties in Lancaster County: 1354388

“Leonard Barnett, 215 acres, January 4, 1733”

“Leonard Barnitz, 250 acres, October 3, 1738”

(Pennsylvania Archives, S-3, Vol. 24, pp. 355-359.)

Since the Land Office was not established before 1733, it is pretty certain that John Leonard Barnitz was there before that, because it took time to secure a warrant. “In May, 1738, John Leonard Barnitz was a sponsor for baptisms on several occasions at The Evangelical Lutheran Church on-the-Conowago.” His two sons, Elias Daniel Barnitz and John George Charles (Carl) Barnitz, acted in a similar capacity. (John Caspar Stover’s Baptisms on the Conowago.)

In 1936, the writer and his wife, Helen, employed Mr. Henry Young, then a researcher for the York County Historical Society, of York, Pennsylvania, to go over all records in that county and Lancaster, making copies of all references to the name Barnitz. The original of this survey is in possession of the writer, and a carbon copy is filed with the York County Historical Society. It was during this search that Mr. Young found among some old Lancaster County papers (which had not been turned over to York County when it was established in 1749) the original will of John Leonard Barnitz. A photostat is in possession of the writer. It is written in a trembling hand during John Leonard’s 71st year, in German script, dated December 3, 1747 and pro-bated December 9, 1749. He named his daughter, Anna Liza Barnitz, and his sons, Elias Daniel Barnitz and John George Carl Barnitz. To his last-named son, he left all of his properties, specifying that he look after his stepmother and stating that the others had been previously provided for. He also made a bequest to his stepson, John Frederick Gelwix. The will is signed J. L. Barnitz.

Concerning the origin of the name Barnitz, it appears to have become such in Old High German sometime between 800 and 1400 A.D., when the German word Bearn, meaning the bear ("King of the Forest") was combined with the German diminutive suffix itz, meaning little—hence, little bear. (Ralph Dornfeld Owen, Ph.D., F.A.S.G., F.G.S.P.)

Certain members of this Barnitz family have thought themselves to have been descended from the very ancient French de Bernetz family in Picardy in the 12th Century, where there were three brothers de Bernetz: one established the House of Savoie, one remained in Piedmont, and the third removed to Germany. Their given names were Jacques de Bernetz and Jean Charles de Bernetz. (Nobilaire Universal de France, Vol. 22, p. 5, by L. Magny.) Another reason is due to Memorials of the Huguenots in America, page 128, by the Reverend A. Stapleton, who has classed the Barnitz as being Huguenots. He offers no proof.

The Barnitz Family

1. JOHN¹ LEONARD BARNITZ is assumed to have been born in Falkenstein, Germany, November 24, 1677 (tombstone), because his son, John George Charles (Carl) Barnitz, stated in his own will that he was born there in 1722, so his father must have been there too. (York Wills, Book I-J, p. 233.) He died in York, Pa., November 19, 1749 and was buried in the Christ Lutheran Churchyard on South George Street. His remains must have been moved twice to make room for two new churches, during which his stone was broken and his J.L. letters were lost. Someone, attempting to make it right, just cut on it N.N.—no name. [The first Lutheran Church in York was built of logs in 1744 and was small. In 1760-61, this was replaced by a new church, forty feet by sixty-five, which lasted until 1812. The present Christ Lutheran Church was finished in 1814. They were all on the same location.] The date of his arrival is not of record in the Pennsylvania Archives or in any other standard publication consulted by the compiler. Evidently he was well provided with ample funds and a knowledge of brewing, a business in which he was conspicuously successful, and he was correspondingly generous in sharing it with the Lutheran churches wherever he went. His first brewery was in York, the second in Hanover, Pa., and the third in Baltimore, Md., where he and his son, Elias Daniel Barnitz, bought Lot No. 27 from Charles Carroll of Annapolis, Md. Since his first wife was not mentioned in his will, it is assumed that she died in Germany. His second wife was the widow of Frederick Gelwick (sic), who had a son by her first marriage, John Frederick Gelwick, born in 1733; married Maria Dorothea Uler; became York County Treasurer in 1756, succeeding Colonel Robert McPherson. He was the first individual to be baptized in the Evangelical

Lutheran Church on-the-Conowago “when Lenhart Barnitz and Frederick Gelwicks (sic) were the first Elders.” (History of York County, Pennsylvania, by John Gibson, p. 581.)

Children of John¹ Leonard Barnitz by his first wife, three:

- i. ANNA² LIZA BARNITZ; nothing further.
- (2.) ii. ELIAS² DANIEL BARNITZ. (See page 11.)
- (3.) iii. JOHN² GEORGE CHARLES (CARL) BARNITZ. (See page 13.)

2. ELIAS² DANIEL BARNITZ (John¹ Leonard) was born at Falkenstein, in the Palatinate of Germany, prior to 1721, and died at Baltimore, Md., February 6, 1780. Like his father, he was an expert brewer and philanthropist, devoted to the Zion Church in Baltimore, of which he was one of the founders. That printed matter is not always reliable, the following example is cited: "The history of German religious worship in Baltimore may be traced back to the late 1740's when two brothers, Barnetz, Daniel and Leonart, came as brewers to Baltimore from York, Pennsylvania, and erected their first brewery at the South-East corner of Baltimore and Hanover Streets. Even at that time they were mentioned as desirable newcomers, for the capital which they fetched with them helped solve the unemployment problems of that time." (Griffin's Annals of Baltimore; Scharf's Chronicles; the Sunday Sun, Magazine Section, October 15, 1933, p. 5.) John Leonard Barnitz was the father of Elias Daniel. On May 26, 1748, John Leonard Barnitz purchased Lot No. 27, in Baltimore, from Charles Carroll. (Hall of Records, Annapolis, Md.: T. R. No. C, p. 5.) Elias Daniel Barnitz left a will dated November 10, 1752, probated February 10, 1780, in which he left funds in the hands of his son-in-law, John Hammond, to carry on the brewery. Records show he disposed of his large real estate holdings between 1764 and 1768. His wife was Catherine Barbara, who, in signing her will, wrote her name as Barnett. It was dated March 1, 1793, and left the brewery, real estate, dwellings, etc., to her grandson, Charles John McConnell, should he live to maturity; otherwise it was to go to John George Charles Barnitz, of York Town, Pa., her brother-in-law. (Baltimore Will Book, No. 5, folio 147.) The grandson died before maturity, and when John George Charles inherited these properties, he quickly sold them to one Detus Hartway, of Baltimore. This brewery continues in 1960 under another name, claiming it started in 1744.

Child of Elias Daniel and Catherine Barbara Barnitz, one:

i. ELIZABETH³ BARNITZ, who died April 22, 1788; was married twice:

First, to Charles McConnell⁸, who died in 1781, leaving a son:

Second, to John Hammond, who died without issue.

3. JOHN² GEORGE CHARLES (CARL) BARNITZ (John¹ Leonard) was born at Falkenstein, Germany, August 14, 1722, as stated in his will, dated October 12, 1796, probated January 4, 1797. (York Will Book, 1-J., p. 235.) He died in York, Pa., December 14, 1796 and is buried in the Christ Lutheran Churchyard, as recorded on page 505 of their records. By will, he left his York brewery to his two sons, Charles Barnitz and John Barnitz. To his other children, naming them, he left substantial sums of money and the same to his wife, who was Anna Barbara Spengler, of York, who died August 20, 1812. They were married on November 11, 1750. (York Recorder, 8/21/1812.) Her will is recorded in York Will Book, M., p. 17.

6. JACOB³ BARNITZ (John² George Charles, John¹ Leonard) was born in York, Pa., April 16, 1758 and died there April 16, 1828. He was an original Trustee of the York County Academy. Served as an Ensign in Colonel Michael Swope's Pennsylvania Battalion, September 16, 1776, in the battle of Fort Washington, on the Hudson River, near New York City; was shot in both legs, taken prisoner by the British, and finally exchanged; one leg was later amputated. After the Revolution closed, he was elected Prothonotary, Recorder and Register of Deeds for York County, serving until his death. "On February 2, 1825, . . . a dinner was given in York for General Lafayette, who was visiting there. Jacob Barnitz, Esq., presided with General Lafayette on his right and the clergy on his left . . ." (While this occasion will be referred to later on, under his son's name, it is mentioned here, for reference.) In making the arrangements for this dinner, Jacob Barnitz borrowed for this large gathering, the six solid ladder-back mahogany chairs made in Philadelphia in 1777, belonging to Colonel Thomas Hartley, and a similar set of six belonging to Colonel David Grier. These rare twelve chairs are now in the possession of Mrs. Helen H. Torrence, of Baltimore. On September 23, 1784, Jacob Barnitz married Mary McClean, born January 3, 1762, at Abbington, Pa., and died in York, December 21, 1839. She was the second daughter of Colonel Archibald McClean, Chief Associate Surveyor under Mason and Dixon when the Mason-Dixon Line was surveyed. 9. HONORABLE CHARLES⁴ AUGUSTUS BARNITZ (Jacob³, John² George Charles, John¹ Leonard) was born in York, Pa., August 7, 1787; died there March 8, 1850; read law under the famous James Smith, Signer of the Declaration of Independence; admitted to the York Bar in 1810; trustee of The York Academy; Chief Burgess; State Senator, 1815; appointed Judge; member of the United States Congress 1833-1835; president of the York National Bank; director of the Chesapeake & Susquehanna Canal project and, in 1820, appointed legal administrator for the William Penn Heirs for York County that included Springettsbury Manor. It was in connection with that lengthy and important litigation, started in 1747, to determine the ownership of the lands in Springettsbury Manor, that Barnitz first met and became a friend of Henry Clay and Daniel Webster, who both visited him later on. Clay and Webster were attorneys for the Province of Pennsylvania against the Springett Penn Heirs. This law suit was finally settled by the Supreme Court at the February Term of 1824, in favor of the Springett Penn Heirs. (History of York County, by John Gibson, p. 90, Dictionary of the United States Congress, and Wheaton's United States Supreme Court Records, Vol. 9, p. 241.) His residence, "Springdale," named by his wife, was first built for a summer place as well as for headquarters for carrying out his many agricultural experiments and cattle raising. The plans for it are said to have been drawn by Benjamin H. Latrobe for one of Henry Clay's Lexington, Kentucky, housing projects, but were given to Barnitz by Clay. It has the Latrobe distinguishing six two-story high white pillars, also used on the Baltimore Cathedral, the Bank of Philadelphia, and a portion of the White House. He had made the plans for the Lancaster, Pennsylvania, court house in 1801. Among the many interesting visitors at "Springdale" were Davy Crockett (Maryland Historical Magazine, Vol. 5, pp. 203-5), Joseph Jefferson, and Col. John Hare Powell of Philadelphia, Secretary to the U. S. Legation in London. He and Barnitz raised Durham short-horned cattle as a hobby. Richard Rush, also of Philadelphia, and his daughter and son were visitors. The son studied law under Charles Barnitz, as shown by a receipted bill May 20, 1833. Rush was Envoy Extraordinary to London. A copy of his book, Rush's Residence at the Court of London, published by Lea & Blanchard in Philadelphia in 1845, autographed, is a prize possession. James Buchanan was a visitor and correspondent, as shown by letters in possession. Charles Barnitz, with his family, grew sunflowers from which they made Sunflower Oil and gave samples to their many friends, not only in York, but to such as their first cousins, the Cope family in Philadelphia, where Dr. Philip Syng Physic was so particularly charmed with it in 1830; also Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, in Baltimore, who wrote about its qualities for hard-shelled crab dressing. (Pennsylvania Genealogical Magazine, Vol. XXI, p. 125.) They also grew silk worms, making silk from the cocoons and weaving it into cloth on their own looms.

It will be remembered that, under Jacob³ Barnitz, Esq., note was made concerning a banquet given for General Lafayette, in 1825, over which Jacob³ Barnitz presided. On the next page is a copy of the letter which was written to Charles A. Barnitz by General Lafayette when he heard of the death of Jacob Barnitz.

Charles⁴ A. Barnitz married, on October 19, 1811, Margaret Grier, born December 1, 1785; died September 1, 1842. She was a daughter of Lieutenant Colonel David Grier, of Scottish parentage, born at Ramelton, County Donegal, Ireland, June 27, 1741; died June 3, 1790, at York, Pa., where he is buried in the First Presbyterian Churchyard. On arriving at Philadelphia in 1763, David Grier went directly to his friend, Colonel Robert McPherson, where he took up 217 acres of land in the Manor of La Grange, 7th August 1828.

My dear young friend,

The distance that now separates us has not lessened the feelings of profound gratitude and tender affection which have bound me to your good parents and to you. Judge what have been my surprise and my grief when, on the late perusal of American papers, I have found the shocking and melancholy account of what you have unexpectedly to suffer, and you now have to mourn forever for the loss of an excellent father. (Jacob Barnitz) Be pleased to mention me most affectionately to your Mother; (Mary McClean Barnitz) to let me know how she is, to remember me to the friends who share in your affliction. The testimonies of esteem and kindness I received from your Father in his official and private capacities shall never be erased from my heart. You have also inspired me with a highly valued confidence in your friendship. I hope you will preserve these sentiments in favor of friendship and of,

Your affectionate sympathizing friend,

LAFAYETTE.

My son and M. LeVasseur beg to be, on this melancholy occasion, remembered to you.

Masque. From there he went to York, where, after studying law under the Honorable James Smith, a Signer, he was admitted to the York Bar, on April 23, 1771. (History of York County, Pennsylvania, by Carter & Glossbrenner, p. 59.) When the Continental Congress decided to raise a Sixth Battalion in Pennsylvania, Colonel William Irvine was appointed to command and David Grier was made a Captain. The Sixth participated in the advance to Canada, at the Three Rivers, and at Chadd's Ford, where Grier sustained minor wounds. On October 25, 1776, Grier was made a Major, and in December a Lieutenant Colonel. (Henning's Statutes.) His commissions were all signed by John Hancock. At the battle of Paoli, where the British made a sneak night attack with bayonets, half of the American troops were either killed or wounded. Colonel Grier sustained severe wounds "slanting upward in his chest." Due to these wounds, exposure, and the lack of adequate treatment, he was unfit for field service. (History of York County, Pennsylvania, by John Gibson, p. 447.) He was made the Quartermaster for York County, to provide supplies for the soldiers. He spent his personal funds for these purposes and was never repaid. Following the Revolution he resumed his law practice; was elected a Member of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, 1783-1785; and a delegate to the special Continental Convention to ratify the Constitution of the United States. His will is recorded in York Wills, Book H, p. 134.

His wife was Jennet McPherson, a daughter of Colonel Robert McPherson, born in 1730, died in 1789, a loyal early patriot, and his wife, Agnes Miller.

14. JANE⁵ GRIER BARNITZ (Charles⁴ Augustus, Jacob³, John² George Charles, John¹ Leonard), the eldest daughter of Charles Augustus, was born at York, Pa., August 23, 1812; died August 2, 1840, at "Springdale" in York. On August 10, 1835, she married James Lewis, of Welsh descent, born at Lewisberry, York County, Pa., January 3, 1796; died November 16, 1845, leaving an orphan daughter aged five. He studied law in the offices of his father-in-law-to-be, Charles A. Barnitz, and soon acquired a lucrative practice; president of the York National Bank; left a substantial fortune. His "Diary"—meticulously kept on daily happenings—has been of untold usefulness in writing this history. Since his lineage is unusually interesting, a few lines will follow: "Ellis ap Lewis was born at 'Nannau' in Marionetshire, North Wales in 1680. He went to Mount Mellick, Queen's County, Ireland, where he received his removal Certificate, May 20, 1708." From there he went to Haverford, Pa., settling in Kennet Township, Chester County. (Pennsylvania Magazine, Vol. 5.) He died at Wilmington, Del., June 11, 1750. His wife was Elizabeth Newlin, born January 3, 1687; died in 1723; daughter of Nathaniel Newlin, born at Canterbury, England, December 18, 1665; died at Concorn, Chester County, in May, 1729; a very prominent man in the Society of Friends; member of the Pennsylvania Assembly, 1698; Commissioner for the property of the Penn Family; a justice, etc. (Colonial Archives, Vol. 1, p. 79; Colonial and Revolutionary Families, Philadelphia, Vol. 1, pp. 80-81; Pennsylvania Archives, s-2, Vol. 9, pp. 675-677; Lewis Redegrees, by Philip Syng Physic Connor, 1894.)

As for James Lewis, he must have had a premonition when he made his will dated August 3, 1842, when he left his substantial fortune to his daughter, Margaret Jane Lewis, to have the income for life and the estate then to go to her children. "If she has no children, at her death, she may leave it to anyone she desires, but not to her husband nor to his relatives." His daughter was then only two years old.

Child of James and Jane⁵ Grier (Barnitz) Lewis, one:

- i. MARGARET⁶ JANE LEWIS, born at "Springdale" in York, Pa., January 1, 1840; died there March 20, 1865. On October 17, 1861, she married contrary to the advice of her closest friends, probably because she could at last assert herself, being of legal age. Having been an orphan at five, and looked after by her grandmother, Margaret Barnitz, her aunt, Maud Rebecca Barnitz, and her guardian, Eli Lewis, president of the York National Bank, she was constantly supervised and imposed upon by some other relatives who borrowed from her to pay their losses in the then-wild Western Land speculation. Due to her lovable and forgiving disposition, she forgave them and excused their notes. Her husband was Samuel⁴ Spangler Hersh (George³, John², Jacob¹, from Switzerland), born in York, Pa., April 24, 1826; died May 2, 1876; more or less a gentleman of leisure, with resources of his own and a wealthy wife. They resided at "Springdale," her father's residence.

1. Margaret⁷ Jane Lewis Hersh; died young.
2. Grier⁷ Hersh, one of York's most distinguished citizens, born at "Springdale" January 29, 1863; died there April 23, 1941. Having been an orphan at thirteen, he was brought up by his Barnitz relatives. After graduating from Chester Military Academy, at Chester, Pa., in 1880, he graduated from Princeton University in the Class of 1884. His popularity there is evidenced by his having been elected vice-president of his class and a member of the Cottage Club. Four years after he started to work for the York National Bank, he was made a director in 1889; president in 1895; president of York Street Railways, York Gas Co., Pennsylvania Clearing House Association, American Gas Association, and the Pennsylvania Bankers Association; director of York National Bank, York Haven Water Co., and the Consolidated Coal Company of Baltimore; president of the Maryland Trust Company, of Baltimore; a founder and member of the Lafayette Club and York Country Club of York; member of the Newcomen Club, Shellfish and Mountain Lake Club of Florida, the Maryland and Elkridge clubs of Baltimore, Md. He provided the historic background for the York Sesqui-Centennial in 1927. A member of St. John's Episcopal Church. His article, "The Scotch-Irish in York and Adams Counties, Pennsylvania," published in The Scotch-Irish Eighth Congress, pp. 319-379 (Harrisburg, Pa., June, 1896) contains much previously-unknown, valuable information which he found in the attic of the Old Court House. His nine-hole golf course, well laid-out with bunkers and sand traps, was the first in York County. He married, first, Julia Lyne Mayer, born May 9, 1866; died September 12, 1916. He married, second, Helen Mayer, a sister of his first wife.

She was a member of The Chicago Laboratory Theatre, wrote a play which was produced at the Northwestern University Theater, and was an associate director of the Johns Hopkins Play House; a member of the Elkridge Club, Gibson Island Club, The Vagabonds in Baltimore, and the Dramatists Guild in New York; has written many lyrics for songs, one of which was nationally broadcast from the Hawaiian Room of the Lex-

Following the death of her mother, she assumed the responsibility of running "Springdale" for her father, up to the time she married, on July 12, 1927, Robert Patterson Turner, born February 3, 1884, son of Major General John Westley Turner, born July 19, 1833, died April 8, 1899, and his wife, Agnes Blanche Soulard; his grandfather was John Dice Turner, of Chicago, Ill., president of the first railroad running out of Chicago—a narrow-gauge called "The Chicago & Galena Railroad."
